

“It is a thousand times better to have common sense without education than to have education without common sense.”

– Robert Green Ingersoll

